Our Featured Leader-Performers for October 21 will be Thomas Wesley Stern and Anthony Apostolaros.

Thomas Wesley Stern Formed in March of 2010, at the end of a long and harsh winter, Thomas Wesley Stern began when life-long friends (and Godbrothers) Gary and Bob drove across the country and back, ending up in Manhattan with new songs to show Joe. They began playing Union Square, Washington Square and any corner where the young and old and in-between would stop for a song. After a few weeks, a bulk of original material, traditional spirituals and work songs became prevalent, and the boys started taking their show on the road. They're now playing their first major gigs, recording their first home made demo CD, and they shall write and perform for the rest of their lives. Ingrid's comment: These guys are truly the future of folk music!

Anthony Apostolaros loves acoustic folk music and has been singing and playing the guitar for more than forty years. He has built several instruments that he likes to bring along when he is invited to perform. He also hosts a monthly acoustic concert series at the Ocean County Artists' Guild in Toms River, NJ, www.ocartistsguild.org.

One of our Leader-Performers on November 18 will be Spook Handy .
